HOLT COUNTY FARM BUREAU NOTES.
(W. C. Swanner, County Agent.)
A keen interest is being manifested in the poultry culling campaign. The demand for demonstrations in culling is increasing. Results of culling up to date prove that there is "something to it." Forty-three "boarders" were culled from a flock of 95 hens for Mrs. Jess Wehrli. The boarders were shut up and fed for a week, during which time they did not lay an egg.
Remember Friday, October 25, will be "culling day" for Holt county. Flocks that are not culled before should be kept up that day until someone gets around to cull them. If you have not arranged for someone to cull your flock, telephone your township poultry committeeman, the home demonstration agent or the county agent. Help us make a good record in culling poultry in Holt county.

Fatten Poultry for Market.
Poultry intended for market should be fattened in crates or small pens. The following mash is recommended: Corn meal seven parts, wheat middlings four parts, using one part of the mixture to two pounds of either sour skim milk or butter milk. When sour milk or butter milk is used no meat scraps are necessary and vice versa. The food administration permits the use of wheat middlings in poultry feed. The above is a very good ration for egg production also. Experiments have proved that the production of fowls which receive either sour milk or meat scraps is greater and more uniform than that of those which do not receive either.

Hard Coal for Brooders.
Poultry raisers who expect to use coal burning brooders and incubators next season should make their plans early. This is the advice of the U. S. fuel administration, and will be promptly heeded by judicious poultrymen. There will be a shortage of anthracite coal.
It is possible that the fuel administration will permit anthracite coal and coke to be used by poultry raisers. Persons interested in securing hard coal for poultry purposes should make their wants known. If there is sufficient demand for it, efforts will be made to get a carload for the poultry raisers of Holt county.

Poison Gophers.
Now is a good time to poison gophers. They are active this time of year in laying in food supplies for the winter. A very good way to poison them is to place a little strychnine in raisins or small cubes of potatoes, and then drop these into the fresh burrows. They should be put well down in the burrows, which should then be covered or filled in at the top. When using potatoes the cubes should be small. If big pieces of potatoes are used the gophers are likely to store them away and immediate results will not be obtained. We know farmers in Holt county who have kept their alfalfa fields practically free of gophers by using these methods.

"Bill" will be greatly missed in this vicinity. We all wish him success in the service, and hope he will return to Holt county to make his home after he has finished his duties for Uncle Sam.
